LIFE IN WASHINGTON.

BEFUBLICANS REPORTERS.

Own Hoax -We published the day before Own Hoax — We published the day before presented whom new columns an account of an attempted entrage upon a little girl in the Capital grounds. We have occasion to-day to correct the statement, as it was untrue, and in doing so, desire to make an explanation. We have always aimed to give to the public, on all occasions, not only the latest, but the most reliable news, and we are unwilling that our readers should believe that they bave been deceived. Our reporters are accustomed to collect police news by visiting the station-brusses at night, and receiving information of the events from the Joffners to charge. Tuesday night our police reporter, in his search for news, visited the Seventh police precinct, and made the usual inquiries. Sergeant Unments, for rows, visited the Seventh police precinct, and made the usual inquiries. Segreant Clements, the officer in command of the precinct, and Private Boyle narrated to him the details of an attempted outrage, and reclaims was given to their story, as it came from them in their similar capacity.
